Hi Adraina,

I hope things are well with you and hope to perhaps see you in class at some point.

Unfortunately, as things now stand you are likely to fail my class (Terminología Especializada en Tecnología, IT0627, 26-1). To date I have received no homework assignments from you, you did not take the first exam (Exam 1P), and I haven't heard from you at all. The second exam for the class is next week and if you miss this exam there is just no way you can pass the course. Even to have a chance of passing the class you would need to submit all of the homework for this, the second partial, and do quite well on the second partial exam. And you would need to show sincere effort in the upcoming third partial and do well on the third partial exam as well as on the final exam.

I truly hope you can rally to complete the class in good standing. Best of luck and hang in there!
